About PHL Airport

Philadelphia International Airport (PHL) is the only major airport serving the 6th largest metropolitan area in the country. PHL and Northeast Philadelphia Airport (PNE) are owned and operated by the City of Philadelphia. PNE is a general aviation and reliever airport.

The Airport is a self-sustaining operation that functions without the use of local tax dollars. PHL is one of the largest economic engines in Pennsylvania. The airport generates more than $14.4 billion in spending to the regional economy and generates more than 141,000 jobs within the region.

Located just seven (7) miles from the downtown Philadelphia area, the Airport is easily accessible from Interstates 76, 95, and 476. Rail service is also available to the Airport on SEPTA's Airport Rail Line train that operates from 5:25 AM until 11:25 PM daily, every 30 minutes. The rail service has easy connections to AMTRAK at 30th Street Station and regional rail lines at 30th Street, Suburban and Market East stations.

PHL accommodated 30.2 million passengers in 2012, this includes 4.3 million international passengers. The airport handled 443,236 aircraft takeoffs and landings (operations). Thirty airlines offer more than 600 daily departures to 124 cities which includes 38 international destinations. Some 389,007 tons of cargo and mail are moved annually by commercial airlines and a half-dozen cargo carriers.

PHL Airport Terminal F Hub

Terminal F Hub New Features

The newly redesigned Terminal F Hub is now open with great new restaurants, shops, a 300-seat food court area, brilliant artwork and more!

The Hub is the intersection of Terminal F's 3 concourses. It features 20 food, beverage and retail stores. These include upscale dining at Local Tavern where meals are prepared by chefs who have been trained by Jose Garces; local favorite Tony Luke's and a mix of national and local favorites Chipotle Mexican Grill, Smashburger, Red Mango, Re:Vive Bar, Sbarro, Au Bon Pain, Le Bus Cafe, Far East, Good 2 Go, Philly Pretzel Factory, Fire & Ice, Solstice, Soundbalance, Kiehl's and Hudson News. As a new service in the terminal customers can take a shower and get a shave at Xpress Spa.

Terminal F Hub Future Developments

- A new baggage claim building on the Arrivals Road
- A taxi stand on the Arrivals Road at Terminal F
- More security screening lanes
- A post-security corridor linking Terminal F to the rest of the Airport

Highlights of the New Terminal F Hub

- Food Court seating is at 302 (400% increase)
- The Hub's main floor has more than quadrupled to 36,900 square feet.
- You Are Here. This is a 1,440 square-foot art glass installation on the wall above the shuttle bus doors. It depicts a panoramic aerial view of the Philadelphia region with a red arrow sweeping down to pinpoint the Airport's location.
- A ceiling pane shaped into a sweeping curve punctuated by 8 roof monitors filters natural lighting to illuminate the Hub area.
- The Hub has three metallic and aerodynamic shaped structural column covers, each 25 feet tall, that anchor the ceiling at the bottom of its curve and convey a sense of lift as they soar to their highest point of 35 feet and the view of the sky beyond.
- A new canopy outside the shuttle bus doors shields passengers from the inclement weather.
- The Hub's mezzanine, featuring a US Airways Club, crew lounges and employee facilities, has nearly tripled in square footage to 22,000 square feet.
- Historically, Terminal F has been the Airport's 3rd busiest terminal, however its share of PHL passengers has grown nearly 6 percentage points to 17.6%.
- Since 2002, Terminal F's first full year of operations, passenger traffic has doubled to 5.3 million a year.
- Since 2002, aircraft operations in F have shot up 31% to 160,000 per year.
